Bluebird Society of Pennsylvania

Junior Member Summer News

June 2026

Be On the Lookout for Deer Ticks

When you are outside - walking along a path in the woods or even just picking a tomato from your garden - you need to be aware that black-legged ticks (also known as deer ticks) might be looking for you. You probably won't be able to feel a deer tick bite and sometimes it's hard to even find them after they have attached because they often bite behind the knees, armpits, between the legs, or on your scalp.

Award winning tick bite prevention poster by Henry Tobias, age 11.